Six Plays Slated For '70-71 Term

Comedy, drama, satire and history will all be featured in Missouri Southern's 1970-71 schedule of plays. The schedule, as announced by the drama department, will consist of four major plays and two children's plays.

The drama productions on the fall schedule include Missouri Legend by E. B. Ginty, which will be shown Oct. 28-31, and the Cherry Orchard by Anton Checkov, to be seen Dec. 9-12.

The next two productions will be a part of the Children's Theatre. The first play, "Robin Hood," will be presented Nov. 14 and 21, at both North and South junior highs of Joplin. "Rumpelstiltskin" will be seen Feb. 27 and Mar. 6.

The spring schedule will feature the third major production, The Killer, by Eugene Ionesco. It is scheduled for Mar. 17-20. On May 5-8, the last major play will be Tartuffe by Moliere.

Chart Takes New Steps For Improved Reading

This fall term Missouri Southern makes the transition from an all commuter college to a community of its own with the addition of on-campus housing.

With this progressive stride in mind, The Chart has taken some steps to better serve the college and its students.

This marks the first time in many that your paper will "feel" like a newspaper. The Carthage Press will print The Chart this year on regular newsprint with its fine offset printing facilities.

The step was taken, in part, due to many complaints in the past on the high-gloss paper used for the paper. But there are other reasons.

The Carthage plant offers various color processes to enhance the appearance of The Chart. You'll be seeing more of this in future issues.

More pictures will be used this year, thanks to the money and time-saving offset process whereby engraving of photos is eliminated. The entire process is faster and costs less. This allows time for more important things—serving you, the student.

We've got plans to better serve the "new" community, but we're interested in what you would like to see in your paper. Suggestions are welcome. Interested, involved people are needed on the staff to make the paper the best in the state. We won two state awards last year with a limited

Students To Polls In Fall Election

The Missouri Southern political scene warmed up this week as prospective senators and class officers sought signatures on nominations petitions in advance of campus-wide elections Wednesday, September 30 and Friday, October 2.

Class officers will be elected September 30 and senators October 2.

New class officers (who also serve on the Student Senate) and senators will be sworn-in at the first Senate meeting of the fall term Tuesday night, October 6. Ceremonies will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. in dining rooms A and B of the College Union.

Three executive officers of each class—president, vice president and secretary-treasurer—will be selected in the first election.

Students will elect 26 senators—eight seniors, seven juniors, six sophomores and five freshmen, as the Constitution specifies. The Senate totals 38 members with four executive officers and a parliamentarian. Senate executive officers, elected last spring, include Gary Armstrong, president; Larry White, vice president; Linda White, secretary, and Jane Betebenner, treasurer.

Nominating petitions must be in the Dean of Men's office, third floor of Hearnes Hall, before formal campaigning can begin. Candidate requirements are a 2.0 grade point average, fulltime student status and credit hours specified for each class.

The election will be directed by the Summer Cabinet, an advisory arm to the Student Senate, with campus interest club members manning the polls. Balloting will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for each election. Ballot boxes will be set up in Hearnes Hall, College Union and Business and Economics building on the west side of the campus. Senate Secretary Linda White will be election teller.

Other action at the first Senate meeting will include certification of election results and appointments by Pres. Armstrong.

Meanwhile Armstrong and Dr. Floyd Belk, Senate advisor, will be in Washington, D.C. Sept. 24-26 for the President's Conference. The meeting is sponsored by the Association of Student Governments across the nation and will center on better communication between student government and the White House. Armstrong said Wednesday Pres. Nixon is expected to address the gathering. Other top government officials also will attend, he said: Armstrong will represent Southern's student body, while Dr. Belk, the administration.

Students From Wide Area Spice Residence Living

As the 1970 fall semester at MSC approached, 252 students, representing 13 states, two foreign countries, and over 50 Missouri cities, invaded the two new resident halls.

These students became MSC's first campus residents. Yoshihide Sakuragi from Japan and Wilson Ogunbode from Nigeria compete for the distinction of being furthest from home, while Louis Ziter of New Hampshire comes to MSC from the most distant state.

152 male students moved into the three-story men's resident nall. The building can house a maximum number of 212 students.

Serving as head resident of the men's resident hall is Mrs. Kathryn Kauffman. MSC students Steven Poore and Robert Snodgrass serve as staff assistants.

The two-story women's resident hall presently houses 100 co-eds. Its capacity is 114 students.

Head resident of the women's resident hall is Mrs. Ellen Hunt. Assisting her are Terri Jamison and Margaret Campbell, MSC

Built to accommodate two students, each room contains two twin-size beds, two desks with chairs and indirect lighting, and two lockable wardrobes, which provide both closet and drawer space. Also included are a night table between the beds, night lights, drapes, mirrors, and sheets, which are laundered by the halls. Each room has individually-controlled thermometers.

In addition to the students' rooms and the shower areas, each resident hall contains two lounges and a library. Vending machines and coin-operated washing machines are also provided.

According to Miss Ann Wilson, Dean of Women, residents of the women's hall will elect officers tonight.

Dedication of the two buildings is scheduled for October 18.

25 Pledge To Social Sororities

After a week of rush parties, anticipation and bids, 25 girls decided to join MSC's social sororities. Thirteen girls decided to join Delta Phi Delta, while 12 girls pledged Beta Sigma Chi.

The pledges for Delta Phi Delta are Toni Taylor, Caky Chickering, Becky Myers, Jo Spille, Deborah Bottero, Donna Bement, Kristen Bailey, Christie Reed, Malyenda Wells, Kathy Martin, Wanda Finn, Brenda Grissom and Sherry Murphrey.

Beta Sigma Chi's fall pledges are Linda Wolf, Karen Buck, Sharon Ramey, Debbie Hesselting, Denise Hight, Patty David, Lynn Harper, Cheryl Harris, Eileen Johnson, Jonnie Sue Furry, Marilyn Sniders and Janice Inman.

A chance to hear the pioneers of Jazz play New Orleans music the way it was played when Jazz was born is coming to Missouri Southern. The "Preservation Hall Jazz Band" will be in concert at the gymnasium October 3 at 8 p.m. All Southern students will be admitted free of charge upon presentation of an ID card. The activity is sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee of the College Union Board.

Campus '70

What's in store for American college and university campuses this school term as the doors swing wide across the country?

One guess is as good as another.

In the wake of deaths on two campuses last spring and increased violence on campuses in general, what's left for an impatient, change-seeking academic community?

Crackdowns have been promised by administrations during summer preparations for the fall term. Just how far these people plan to go to achieve "law and order" is yet to be seen.

But with those thoughts in mind, let's take a quick glance at some student newsmaking events of this summer. Make your own assumptions or predictions.

—On August 16 the 23rd annual National Student Association Congress voted down 150-134 a proposal calling for nonviolent civil disobedience and paralyzing Washington, D.C. next May 1 unless the Vietnam War is ended.

The Associated Press said it was "a sharp blow to the radical left..." Opposition developed among blacks, Mexicans Americans and more moderate students. One Black student told the gathering, "You're stupid" to vote for the plan.

Regarding another radical amendment presented at the convention, a Queens College (New York) student said, "We're talking about total overthrow of the government. It is totally absurd."

—Three days later, David Ifshin, new president of the National Student Association said, "four years of student activism have taught me violence is inevitable. I've been working for four years and nothing's been effective," the 21-year-old Syracuse University senior said.

Ifshin continued, "the long-standing idea was to mass in Washington and say 'We Oppose the War' and it would be ended. That didn't work. March masses didn't work. We tried to get peace candidates elected. That didn't work. What's left?"

—August 28 a report released from the League for Industrial Democracy said American college students are largely moderate and the radical student movement is disintegrating, torn by "factionalism and frustration." The report included a survey of 50 campuses. In essence, the report said left-wing oriented groups had even bitter internal differences.

—A couple thousand college students, trying to erase an image of protest and violence, have taken their cases into the homes of "Middle Americans," the Associated Press reported August 31. Members of the "Committee to Bridge the Gap," have talked at length this summer with members of the older generation about student unrest, the war, long hair, campus violence, drugs, academic freedom and other subjects that tend to separate the young and the old. As of this August, 350 sessions had been held, mostly by students at 62 Southern California colleges. Students from colleges across the country have expressed an interest and the idea is expected to spread still further in the fall, the AP reported. "The sessions seem to open people's pores to new ways of looking at issues," Mike Gallant, 19, of UCLA said.

Flick Society Coordinator Says...

Films Serious Business, Hold Passionate Interest

"Films, once thought to be merely a source of casual entertainment and diversion, have become serious academic business and the subject of passionate student interest throughout the country," says Harrison Kash, MSC assistant professor of chemistry and coordinator of the Spiva Art Center Film Society.

Kash cites as one phase of the "recent cultural explosion" the "increased awareness and rediscovery of significant films that have either passed the local theatres or whose runs have long expired."

Now there is not only an increased interest in screen personalities such as "Bogart, Garbo, and W. C. Fields," but also an "increasing ability to recognize and associate film titles with famous directors such as Bergman, Kubrick, Fellini, and Kurosawa." Also, the number of people who are able to discuss films "on a level above that of 'I liked it' or 'I didn't like it'" is growing, he said.

According to Kash, "devotees of classic cinema see their films in three different ways: tv screenings, specialized or 'art house' theatres, and film societies." He explained that because classics are rarely found among the "mediocre films" shown on tv and because specialized theatres are usually located only in larger cities, "film societies offer an opportunity to both view and discuss films of excellence not otherwise accessible."

Kash defines a film society as a "cultural organization formed to encourage the appreciation of cinema as an art by means of showing films, discussing them, and supplying its members with

ACE Reveals Plans for Activities

Plans for a membership social and an appearance on KODE-TV's "FYI" have been announced by the Association for Childhood Education. ACE also released the names of newly-elected officers.

The membership social will be held at Mary Williamson's Hideaway on October 2. Members may attend free; each family will be charged 50c. Reservations must be made by September 25. Cars will leave the front parking lot of MSC at 4:30 P.M.

Representatives of ACE will appear on KODE-TV's "For Your Information" at 12:30 P.M. on September 30.

Club officers include Mary Riley, president; Kay Puffinebarger, vice-president—film committee; Nina Williams, secretary; Mary Williamson, treasurer—music committee; Sue Reasonover, publicity—student senate; and Pat Baston, dance committee.

The organization's first meeting of the 1970-71 school year was held at 1:00 P.M. on September 17 in the Science Building.

ACE urges all students interested in joining to contact the Instructional Media Center on the third floor of the MSC Library, or to phone Mary Riley at 623-9645.

information about cinema."

The film society movement began when a distinction was made between "cinema as a business and cinema as an art," he explained. "People with imagination became interested in studying cinematic techniques and analyzing their possibilities for expressing feelings and ideas."

By 1920 the first film society had been formed in Paris, and by 1925 film societies existed in England and Australia. The London Film Society, one of the first, did much pioneer work for the movement.

Soon film societies sprang up in Scotland, Germany, Canada, and the United States. The Museum of Modern Art and the American Film Institute promoted the growth of film society activity in the United States.

Kash pointed out that these film societies seek "not only films of merit which have been shown in commercial theatres," but also seek "the work of great directors whose film were not so widely shown and whose fame sometimes stayed within the confines of their country." Long after commercial theatres "lose interest" in these artists, the film societies continue to "champion" their "enduring fame," he said.

For example, because of the work of the societies in their early days, the works of Sergei

Eisenstein were first presented in England and the United States. "The societies successfully argued that the work of a great artist was worth showing even if it was thought at that time to be propaganda," Kash said.

According to Kash, the film committee of the Spiva Art Center Film Society has selected a "varied program which it believes will hold some appeal for everyone."

The eight-program series begins October 13. A season brochure, containing information about individual film offerings and an outline of the Society's goals, may be obtained at the reception desk in the Fine Arts Building.

Fall Mixer

Missouri Southern's annual fall mixer and dance will be held Saturday, Sept. 19, following the Lions first home football game against Lincoln University of Jefferson City. The dance will be held from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. on the third floor of the College Union.

The sounds of "The Club" from the Stadium of Pittsburg, Kan. will be featured at the dance. Refreshments will also be served.

Admission to the dance and mixer will be one MSC I.D. card per couple. The mixer will be sponsored by the dance committee of the College Union Board.

Ray Harding, MSC's sophomore aerial wizard, sees the Lions-Lincoln battle as pass-producing contest. Ray has been working with his wide receivers over the past week in an effort to get the exact timing down. Saturday night at Joplin's Junge Stadium will be a good time to see some of Ray's "bombs".

Harding Lauds Offensive Line

By JIM PRICE
Chart Sports Editor

Just what does Ray Harding expect to do in the game against Lincoln Saturday night?

The quiet, smiling MSC quarterback laughed and said, "We're all interested in the same thing coach Berry is, and that's putting points on the scoreboard."

"Lincoln is big and fast, and we're planning on doing a lot of passing against them."

"I've been working with the wide receivers this week quite a bit, and after each practice, Larry Gramling and I work on our patterns."

How about the game against Fort Hays State?

"We didn't have a particular game plan. We just wanted to score. I didn't have too much trouble throwing the rain, and the referees kept the ball pretty dry. It just rained kind of off and on, so it wasn't too bad."

Ray had plenty of praise for his offensive line.

"The offensive line did a terrific job of blocking. I wouldn't have been able to pass that much if the guys on the line hadn't done such a great job. That was the story of the passing game. The offensive line."

Ray comes to MSC by way of Arkansas City, Kan. Junior College, where he started six games at quarterback for the grid team there.

Ray chalked up four individual passing records in Missouri Southern's season-opening loss to the Fort Hays State Tigers last Saturday, 36-29. He completed 23 of 49 for 357 yards in the air, and also fired a 72-yard bomb to fullback Larry Perry for the longest scoring pass play in the Missouri Southern record book. Pat Wozniak, who graduated from MSC last spring, held the records in attempts, completions, and total yardage.

The game against Lincoln should result in a thrilling aerial performance for Ray Harding and Co. Don't miss it.

another school record for the longest completed pass ending in a score.

Hays State scored a safety as Harding, in an attempted pass, was caught from behind by Tiger tackle Rick Lacey in the end zone.

Missouri Southern's last chance came with 2:07 remaining in the final quarter as Harding threw a 41-yard pass to Mike O'Rourke only to have it knocked out of his hands by a Hays defender. The Bengals recovered the ball on the play, and ate up the clock to end the battle.

Contest Pleases Berry

Head Missouri Southern College football coach Rube Berry had some interesting comments following the Lions' season opener against the Fort Hays State Tigers.

"We've got a real stallion on our hands," Berry said, referring to Ray Harding, MSC signalcaller who broke three school passing records in the rain-hampered contest.

"We found out quite a few things in that game. We need to work on our kicking a lot more. We didn't devote as much time to that phase of the game as we should have in preseason drills.

"We'll have to shore up our defense, but the big thing is we know what we can do in a game."

"We had no idea that he would show up like that in the game," he stated.

"I've seen him perform like that before, but I couldn't believe it."

Harding Displays Abilities

Chart Sports Writer

Quarterback Ray Harding broke four school records in tossing for three touchdowns and scoring another, but was unable to lead the Missouri Southern Lions to a season-opening victory as the Fort Hays Tigers downed MSC, 36-29, at Hays, Kan. last Saturday, Sept. 12.

Harding surpassed the records of most completions, (23), most attempted passes, (49), and most yardage, (357) during the three-hour rain-soaked contest.

Before Harding could unleash his record-breaking aerial attack, the Tigers, led by the powerful running of Tommy Evans, ran up a 20-point lead.

Intercepting a Harding pass, the Bengals marched 89 yards in 11 plays, sparked by two successful runs by Dennis Brown, one for 19 and the other for 13, placing the ball on the MSC one-yard line.

Fort Hays quarterback Mike Karl, who proved to be a thorn in the Lions' defense, passed for one TD and scored two more, including the Tigers' first score of the game.

The Fort Hays crew set up their second touchdown on an MSC fumble. In two plays the Tigers had scored, capped by Evans' 21-yard jaunt for the tally.

With 11:54 remaining in the first half, Karl connected on a 43-yard touchdown pass to split end John Woodworth to push the score to 20-0.

Missouri Southern broke into the scoring column with 9:32 left in the first half as Harding looped a 14-yard pass to Bryant Davis on a drive that covered 87 yards in eight plays.

On their next possession the Lions proceeded for their second touchdown drive as Harding shot a 31-yard pass to tailback Mike Rader with 6:38 remaining in the half.

Missouri Southern captured the lead in the third quarter on a 59-yard drive in 10 plays, finalized by Harding's quarterback sneak from the one. The score at that point was 21-20.

Fort Hays regained the lead with Evans bursting over from the one. The Tigers were successful in a two-point conversion as Karl scored from the hash mark.

Karl drove Hays State for another TD in 11 plays, scoring on a one-yard plunge hiking the Bengal lead to 34-21.

The Lions came back as Harding threw the bomb and connected with Larry Perry on a 72-yard touchdown. Faking the extra point attempt, Harding passed to Dave Evans for a two-point conversion for a 34-29 score.

Grid Hopefuls, Coaches Put In Plenty Of Hours

A NEW look.

That's what head coach Rube Berry's Missouri Southern College Lions will have for the 1970 football season.

A new face is in store, according to Berry, and that new face should be pretty well apparent in both the Lions' offense and defense.

During the preseason workouts, Berry had a lot of praise for his charges; a praise well deserved.

"There's been a lot of accomplishments, and we've definitely come a long way," he commented. "We've got athletes now, men and not boys. We've got better practice facilities, and our scholarships are competitive with other schools. The uniforms will have a new look, with a little re-designing. We've got a respectable program now, and not a cow-pasture type program.

A lot of these changes for the better have been out of my hands, but we've made a lot of fine improvements."

Assisting Berry this year will be coaches Tony Calwhite, Ed Wuch, Don Strange, and MSC graduate Glenn Wills. Calwhite, Wuch, and Strange will be working with the defense, while Berry and Wills will be handling the offensive aspects of the Lions' game.

For those of you who are unfamiliar with certain statistics of the MSC grid squad, here's a brief rundown of the facts:

The MSC colors are Green and Gold; the nickname: The Lions; the band: The Lion Pride; the Lions are not a member of a certain conference or league, and are billed as independents, and the MSC football record in 1969 was a 2-8 mark. The Lions posted victories over Wayne State of Nebraska and Missouri Valley, while dropping decisions to Northeastern State College of Oklahoma, Panhandle State of Oklahoma, State College of Arkansas, Arkansas Tech, Northwood Institute, Kansas State College of Pittsburg, Lincoln University, and Cameron State of Oklahoma.

A pretty interesting note is that the Lions, since MSC became a four-year institution in 1967, have not lost a game played in Carthage.

The Lions will be operating on the offensive side from a triple option formation, according to Berry.

Dave Evans, the Lions' record-setting tight end, is expected to have an even finer year as a sophomore. Other receivers who will be adding a threat to the offense will be transfer Larry Gramling and letterman Bryant (Turkey) Davis.

Veterans Ray Bayse, Doug Meadows, and Mike Thomas will anchor the offensive line.

On defense, the Lions shape up well.

Lions, Lincoln Tilt Set

Rube Berry's Missouri Southern College Lions will face the Lincoln University grid squad in MSC's home opener Saturday night at Junge Stadium. Game time is set at 8 p.m.

The Lions, foiled in their first outing of the season, dropped a 36-29 decision to the Fort Hays State Tigers last Saturday in Hays, Kan.

Berry terms the Lincoln team as being big and fast.

"We're expecting a pretty tough battle Saturday," he commented. "This Lincoln bunch is tough, so we'll have our hands full."

The Lincoln University team will have 26 returning letterman on their roster, plus 20 freshmen. Their tight end, Gabe Coleman, averaged 19.8 yards per reception last year, and is a strong candidate for All-MIAA honors.

The Lincoln quarterback, James Lang, likes to pass, as does Southern's Ray Harding, so quite an aerial show should be in store for the fans. Jim Hoots, MSC's left defensive end, reported that the defense was concentrating on the pass rush during drills this past week, and said:

"Coach Berry tells us that they (Lincoln) have got a good quarterback, who likes to pass and throws real well. We've got to contain the quarterback."
